CHINA CALLS ASSOCIATION'S STATEMENTS MISLEADING

Legation In London Has Issued Plea For Understanding

TASK IS DIFFICULT

Sympathy And Friendship Of Foreign Powers Greatest Need

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 17.—Referring to misleading statements with regard to China, which appeared in the British press yesterday, the Chinese Legation states that, as regards the alleged lack of public interest in China in the developments following President Harding's invitation to a Pacific Conference, it received innumerable telegrams from private bodies in all parts of China during the past month, pleading for China's rights and the cause of a good understanding between China and Great Britain.

In connection with the question of the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance, it was wrong to suppose, the statement continues, that the Chinese would be less thankful than the citizens of other countries, or less willing to express their gratification, at the chance now given to cement world peace.

Regarding statements concerning the state of political unrest in China, the statement emphasises the very great difficulties which the Chinese must overcome before a complete reform of the administration can be accomplished. It declares that the Chinese nation rely largely on the sympathy and friendship of the Western peoples for their progress and the solution of their difficulties, and hurriedly-formed opinions, it concludes, unnecessarily discourage them in the difficult task of building up a stable republic.

CALLS REPUBLIC FAILURE

London, July 16.—Presiding at the annual meeting of the China Association, the Chairman, Mr. F. Anderson, said that the Republic had hitherto been a failure in China. The real difficulty, Mr. Anderson explained, was financial.

If the immense accumulation of wealth of the country were organised, it would be powerful, stabilising influence.

If bankers, traders and officials, who possessed capital, combined, they might form a powerful coalition administration and build up a civil service which would find employment for young and able Chinese.

Mr. Anderson declared that the decision of the Chinese Government to establish a silver mint at Shanghai was a hopeful sign, and he welcomed the invitation to the Chinese financial group to participate in the Consortium as likely to have far-reaching consequences, possibly eventually laying the foundation of a strong administration. "Britain is an old friend of China and Japan," the Chairman concluded, "the British are interested in the removal of the causes of friction between China and Japan, while supporting cordial Anglo-Japanese relations."

BRITISH RAISE 79 FRENCH VILLAGES RAVAGED BY WAR

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, July 15.—The British League for the Help of the War-stricken Regions of France, held its first annual meeting in London yesterday. The delicate attention of the League in selecting the French National Fete day for its meeting is much appreciated in France.

It was announced at the meeting that the League had so far helped to resurrect seventy nine French villages from ruin. The Duke of Northumberland, in the course of a speech, expressed the hope that the League's action might lead to a further result, namely a permanent alliance between France, Belgium and Great Britain.

Allies Tell Turk What He Needs To Regenerate Rule

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, July 16.—According to despatches from Constantinople, General Pelle, French High Commissioner, has made the following statement.

"The Allied Powers, and notably France, desire to see the regeneration of the Turkish Empire. But the following conditions are pre-requisite.

(1). The Turks must group together and unite.

(2). They must carry out radical reforms in all branches of the administration; likewise in the domain of the judiciary, thereby securing the confidence of the powers.

(3). They must place their national economic fabric on a solid groundwork; that will be the principal deciding factor of their future existence."

The Turkish press states that General Pelle's statement has created a deep impression both in official circles and among the general public. The reforms which the General proposes in no way clash with Turkish national aspirations, the Turkish newspapers consider, "the full protection of the rights and interests of foreigners being in strict conformity with Turkish policy," as one organ puts it.

In Paris, the Journal comments, "We note General Pelle's declarations with satisfaction. If France needs raw materials, Turkey and the Turks need French products and above all French capital, as well as French culture. The questions on which France and Turkey are in disagreement are temporary. But many century-old ties exist between the two countries.

Harding Tells Japan Of Topics For The Conference

News Excites Nipponese Press Whose Undercurrent Is Apprehension For Future Of Country

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, July 16.—The United States Government have conveyed to Japan their ideas on the scope of the proposed disarmament and Far Eastern conference, with a view to meeting Japan's wish to know the extent to which Far Eastern affairs will be discussed at the Conference.

London, July 16.—The Hague correspondent of the Daily Mail states that the Netherlands Government are keenly following developments in connection with President Harding's disarmament conference, which it is hoped Holland will be incited to attend, as a settlement of Pacific problems would solve the vital questions of protection of the East Indies. Confidence in a satisfactory outcome of the situation is indicated by the firmer tone on the Amsterdam Bourse, the correspondent adds.

Paris, July 16.—The Temps strongly supports the suggestion that Holland should be invited to take part in the Washington disarmament conference in view of her extensive interests in the Far East.

JAPANESE COMMENT

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 14.—All the Japanese newspapers comment editorially on President Harding's proposal for an international conference on disarmament and Pacific questions.

The Jiji welcomes the American President's proposal as most timely and useful. In existing circumstances, it says, the maintenance of peace in the Pacific is essential to the maintenance of world peace, and nothing is more seriously detrimental to Pacific peace than armament competition.

The Kokumin receives the proposal with equal satisfaction but adds: "The greater portion of the existing international complication is due to America's dubious attitude on the agreement and decisions made by the Supreme Conference, in which America herself participates.

It will be advisable for the Powers to make sure, before they decide to respond to the American invitation, whether the United States will this time be sincere enough to respect whatever agreement may be reached at the conference to be called."

TWO ARE INVOLVED

The Yomiuri says the question of armament restriction is inseparably associated with Pacific and Far Eastern questions, and in the latter questions Japan and China are involved so vitally that a preliminary agreement between these two Powers will be necessary to ensure the successful culmination of the proposed convention.

But in view of the present unsatisfactory state of Sino-Japanese relations, the journal is pessimistic regarding the feasibility of such an agreement.

In the light of the experience of the Paris Peace Conference the Yamato doubts the ability of the Powers to discuss the questions of the Far East and the Pacific "without any prejudice or selfish considerations, when the situation which necessitates the present conference is taken into consideration."

The inclusion of the Chinese Republic in the proposed conference, in the opinion of the Chugai Shogyo, invests the convention with the character of an international conference on the Far Eastern question, whereas, in the journal's opinion, there is no question so grave in the Far East as to require such a conference. The journal advises the Japanese to act very circumspectly, because the fate of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance depends upon the proposed conference.

TO COPE WITH ALLIANCE

The Tokio Asahi finds that the importance of the proposed conference lies in "the fact that it has

RIOTING MARKS NOTE REDEMPTION OF FRENCH BANK

Bricks And Stones Hurled At Police At Chinese Bankers' Association

A disturbance which assumed the proportions of a riot occurred yesterday forenoon before the offices of the Chinese Bankers' Association in Hongkong Road when some 800 holders of notes of the Banque Industrielle de Chine assembled to receive payment in silver for the paper currency which is being retired. Bricks and stones were hurled at the police officers on duty and Sikh reserves had to be rushed to the scene before order was restored.

The trouble began to brew shortly before the doors of the association opened at 10 o'clock, when the crowd of noteholders gathered. The throng was greater than at any time since the paying off was begun and it was apparent from the start that the staff engaged in redeeming the paper would be inadequate to handle the situation. This fact was pointed out by the foreign police officer in charge and the association stated that if the police would keep the crowd back more men would be set to work at the desks.

RUSH FOR DOOR

There was a rush for the doors when the police tried to check the flood of applicants and suddenly missiles began to clatter about them. Sub-Inspector W. Jones, in charge of the work, was struck on the shoulder with a brick and Sub-Inspector P. Lavelle was caught in the onrush of Chinese and hurtled against the iron gateway leading to the offices. The two Sub-Inspectors, together with Sergeant H. J. Jefferson, managed to hold the rush however, until the Sikh reserves could arrive and order was then established and the bearers of notes were admitted to the premises in batches of twenty.

It is believed that the brick throwing was started by loafers who were hanging about the outskirts of the crowd and tried to aggravate the trouble.

The reason for the increased number of applicants yesterday is said to have been a rumor which

Buying Curios Is The Most Popular Pastime Of Tourist

By Elsie McCormick

WHENEVER anybody returns home from China, friends and relatives who meet him on his arrival come back to the house with him and show a suspiciously cheerful willingness to help him unpack his luggage. They try to mislead him by the usual remarks: "Do they really eat rats in China?" "Let's hear you speak some Chinese," and "A friend of mine had a cousin in some city that ended with chow. His name was Smith. You must have met him," but all the time they are watching him unload the collars from his suitcase and wondering when he is going to get down to the ivory and Mandarin coats. If it later proves that he has come home empty-handed, the drop in the temperature will be such as to make him believe that Time has suddenly turned back its hands to the Glacial Period.

Therefore everybody who comes to the Far East begins early in his career the acquisition of what he labels as "curios." As soon as he lands in Japan he takes on a preliminary cargo of flimsy lacquer boxes, luncheon sets of a peculiar fiber silk that wears the mark of every drop of gravy as proudly and unerringly as a General does his medals; and a hand-bag or two with a bottom of woven bark that is always starting a separation and alimony proceedings with the fabric.

SURE TO GET STUCK

If he goes to Nikko and takes the time to examine some of the beautiful art objects in the shops, or if he has sufficient money to patronise the high-class dealers in Yokohama or Kioto, his collection of "curios" will be well worth the space it takes up in his luggage. But the government of Japan, like that of Italy is becoming less and less inclined to permit the departure of art treasures, even sending dealers abroad to buy back some of the valuable objects which were sold in the past.

Therefore even the best shops show few authentic masterpieces of ancient art and much that ranks as clever modern imitations.

The average traveler, however, never gets as far as the good imitations. During the hours that the boat is in port he whirls madly down the various "machis" of Yokohama, Kobe, or Nagasaki, collecting art treasures that first saw the light in Passaic, New Jersey, and spending yen as if they were cigarette coupons.

When he returns to the ship, and begins to display his new possessions he discovers that everybody else bought the same things considerably cheaper after confessing that he hadn't gotten any tortoise shell ornaments of imitation pearls for which the Japanese ports are famous and learning the kimono he bore off so gleefully might be purchased in the basement of any American department-store for $4.98. He bundles his purchases in to the bottom of his trunk with the sad light of belated wisdom in his eye.

WORST BORE OF ALL

Incidentally everybody who has ever shopped in the Far East is acquainted with the joy-killer who always knows where to get things very much cheaper and tells people so after they have made their purchases. If the shopper happened to secure a real bargain, the joy-killer does his bit to tarnish the glee by relating what the selling price was ten years ago.

In China, where factory-made curios are still fortunately rare, and the one-price shop rarer still, shoppers are divided into those who enjoy haggling as much as a fox-terrier likes a bone and those who so abhor arguments over price that they will pay any sum asked. The first class is composed principally of women. Many a lady tourist who was considered a meek and peaceful person at home goes out on a shopping-tour with the light of battle in her eyes and comes back with spoils in the shape of Mandarin petticoats, embroidered dragons for piano covers, and various brass bowls, the lament of the wily shopkeeper to the effect that he was losing money on the safe still ringing like music in her ears.

Then there is the lady who heard a lecture or two on Chinese art before she left home.

"Do you think this is a Ming or a T'ang?" she inquires, picking up a bowl in need of a bath and flashing it at someone who, she believes knows less about the subject than she does.

"Well it looks like a Ming but it probably has somewhat of a Tang to it too," we always cautiously reply under the circumstances whereupon the lady remarks that as a matter of fact it is probably a chow.

"Oh, yes," say we, "that must be it. Here's the figure of a chow dog."

CHINESE SAVEE BUYERS

Then, not being able to think of any more dynasties the lady puts it down and becomes interested in some ancient Mandarin beads that are nearly eighteen days old.

The foreigners' strange love for "curios" is very adequately commercialised by the quick-thinking Chinese. A man who happened to pass through a small village in Shantung bought a little earth-stained idol in one of the shops. The next time a foreigner went through the village, word traveled rapidly down the street and every store-keeper hurriedly set out a whole row of the same little earth-stained idols and cheerfully awaited results.

Despite the possibilities of being done there is a real joy in exploring the stuffy little Chinese shops, and buying spun glass lanterns in Tsinanfu, brasses and old embroideries in Peking, exquisite silk lacquer in Foochow, and delicate ivories in Canton.

The person who leaves for home at once has a fair chance of taking his collection with him, but he or she who remains long

Buildings And Land In Far East Exchanged For Interest

News was received in Shanghai yesterday that the Banque Industrielle de Chine had disposed of its properties in the Far East to a real estate company formed early in May, nearly two months before the bank closed its doors.

The new company, called the Societe Immobiliere d'Extreme Orient, is capitalised to the extent of 30,500,000 francs, represented by 6,100 shares of 5,000 francs each, of which the bank holds 6,000.

HEARING BEGUN OF RIOT AND MURDER CASE

Nine Men Go To Trial Following Affair At 'New World'

The nine men charged in connection with the New World shooting affair of June 17, when a Sikh policeman was killed and a Chinese police watchman was wounded, came up for hearing before Assessor Ferrajolo and Magistrate Loh in the Mixed Court yesterday.

But one of the nine is charged with murder and attempted murder and the charge dealt with yesterday was that of riot, laid against the other defendants. The murder charge will come up later in the week.

The evidence yesterday was principally in connection with the identity of the men. After Detective Sergeant Kiloh had outlined the case, a Chinese who was previously included in the charge but has since been released identified all of the defendants as participants in the disturbance which led to the shooting. Various other witnesses identified individuals, but were unable to identify all of the accused as having been connected with the trouble. Several of the accused, called to the witness stand, denied that they had taken any part in the rioting. The case was adjourned until Wednesday.

The prosecution is being conducted by Mr. R. C. Faithfull and counsel for the defendants include Messrs. H. D. Rodger, K. E. Newman, Krisel, Kentwell, P. W. Goldring, Ponson Chu and A. Y. Ting.

The man accused of murder and attempted murder, Zung Nying-zien, who was arrested in Hankow, has been identified by the wounded Chinese constable. The accused is said to be the son of a prominent former railway official.

A large and enthusiastic audience greeted the Russian Opera Company's production of "Madame Butterfly" and the long applause and many curtain calls bespoke the delight of those who heard the wonderful Puccini music at the Lyceum last night.

Though much was to be desired in the staging and perhaps in the acting, it was a creditable rendition, with Danilov, Ossipova, Burskaia and Radeeff in the principal roles.

Seven years ago Danilov was considered one of Russia's four greatest tenors. He had rare opportunity to display his talent last night in the "Love or Fancy" solo and the "Did I Not Tell You?" with Radeef. Danilov sang the American naval officer's part.

As Cho Cho San, the "Madame Butterfly," Miss Ossipova was excellent. Miss Burskaia was a very sympathetic Suzuki. Radeeff, too, was very good.

The piece is not known in Russia to any great extent and because of this "Madame Butterfly" was not produced as well as it might have been.

But the rendition was thoroughly enjoyed by the enthusiastic audience for the singing was excellent and the acting—particularly of Danilov, Ossipova, Burskaia and Radeef—was very good. Ossipova thrilled the audience in her death scene.

Tonight the Company will sing Bizet's "The Pearl Fishers," first produced in Paris in 1863. Caruso and de Luca sang in "The Pearl Fishers" 22 years ago in Genoa at the beginning of their operatic careers.

The opera is the first of Bizet's to achieve success and contains much music of charm and originality, showing traces of that dramatic force which reached its full development in "Carmen."

The story tells of two Singalese pearl fishers for the priestess Leila and of the unsuccessful rival's generosity.

The prelude is considered one of Bizet's finest instrumental writings.

sees them melt away like a snowball in spring, some being pressed into hasty duty as wedding presents, Christmas gifts, and bridge prizes, while others of a perishable variety meet a hasty end at the hands of expert Chinese baggage-smashers.

On reaching America, the traveler usually finds himself the owner of a few broken idols, a dispirited linen table-cloth which had been packed next to a shattered bottle of hair-tonic, and a couple of brass candlesticks with several essential parts missing.

He therefore hastily visits Chinatown on his arrival in San Francisco boarding an eastbound train later with a full line of curios and a sensational story to go with each one.

Women visitors to the Far East often return with a prize curio in the shape of a new husband.

arding Tells Japan Of Topics For The Conference

prompted more by the sity for American activity to with the Anglo-Japanese ific problem than by the call armament restriction, which e nominal object of the con-nce."

e Nichi Nichi welcomes the osal and says that the nese fortification of the n Islands and increasing rican activity for Pacific de-, both of which, it urges, are ly the result of armament petition in the Pacific are tional factors rendering the osed conference for armament riction all the more necessary welcome.

e Hochi finds in the proposed rence a good opportunity for n to assure the Powers of sincere intention to join in doing whatever is requir-or promoting world peace," advises the Japanese authori-"to take positive steps at the osed conference and propose tation of not only naval but military armament construc-"

REACH UNDERSTANDING

e Osaka Asahi writes: sident Harding's proposal erves careful consideration he Japanese. President Hard-has been stimulated to take step by Senator Borah's pro-al while he has also been en-aged by the diplomatic vity of the British Govern t.

seems to be the object of sident Harding to try to e the Pacific and Far Eastern tions pending between Japan America at a conference of five great Powers and in-ntally to arrive at a definite erstanding between America, at Britain and Japan regard-naval limitation.

It is a moot point whether erica aims at arriving at a nite understanding in regard he Shantung and Yap ques-s. In other words, the pro-d international conference be regarded as in the nature a conference where amend-ts to the decisions of the ailles conference may be ussed.

Under these circumstances, it doubtful whether President ding and Secretary of State ches have sufficient deter-ation to carry through the me they have initiated."

he Osaka Mainichi comments he same strain. It says: "If the desire of America merely discuss naval disarmament, e is no necessity to extend invitation to France and y, as these countries are not lly interested in naval dis-ament.

TO SOLVE DILEMMA

It is more likely that the real ntion of America in conven-a conference of the five great ers is to make it a kind of lication of the Paris con-nce so that a way may be nd for the solution of the gue of Nations dilemma and the same time a counter-posal may be formulated as inst the renewal of the Anglo-anese Alliance.

The decision of President ding to include China in the discussion of the Pacific question may be taken as a positive proof that the conference will not be for the mere purpose of the consideration of disarmament. The invitation to China may create a very delicate situation for Japan.

"It is not improbable that the Pacific question may be dealt with at the conference in such a way as to make the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance no longer necessary.

"The move taken by President Harding is a clever piece of statecraft which, if properly handled, will extricate America from the awkward dilemma into which she has been plunged in regard to the League of Nations question. President Harding evidently means to strike while the iron is hot.

VITAL TO JAPAN

"The proposed conference will be vastly more important to Japan than the Paris conference, as its outcome will have a vital bearing on her future. It is no exaggeration to say that the rise or fall of the country depends upon the decision reached at the conference and as such the proposition should be studied by the Government and people alike from all angles and in all possible bearings."

The vernacular papers quote at the same time the Japanese military authorities as entertaining pessimistic views regarding the prospects of the proposed conference. Their argument is based on the ground that the existing condition of the Far East is too complicated to settle the future policy of the Powers.

This, however, does not in the least justify an objection to the conference, in the military authorities' opinion, in view of the purpose for which the convention is proposed. But altogether the military authorities think, according to the vernacular press, that there is little prospect of the proposed conference resulting in anything very significant, unless the Powers who participate in the convention are prepared to realise the aim in view at all hazards.

CHINA DISCUSSES IT

A special joint session of Cabinet and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs was held on Saturday on the question of President Harding's proposed Disarmament Conference. It was decided to organise a special commission at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs to prepare the work for China's delegation at the Conference.

The question of the Shantung controversy will probably be brought up by China at this conference and Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo will head the delegation. Dr. Koo, Mr. Alfred Sze and Mr. Hu Wei-teh, Ministers to the Court of St. James, to Washington and Tokio respectively will be instructed to approach the governments concerned, on these proposals.

On account of the proposed conference, M. Obata, the Japanese Minitser to Peking, is not leaving for his post as reported, a Tokio telegram states.

Dr. C. T. Wang, former Chinese delegate to the Versailles Conference left Shanghai for Peking Sunday. He will consult the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Dr. W. W. Yen, on the proposed Disarmament Conference in Washington and attend to other matters, including the organisation of the Shanghai Silk and Cocoon Exchange, the re-organisation of the China University in Peking of which he has been appointed president, and the question of the drafting of a constitution for Chekiang.

Dr. Wang was accompanied by Mr. Yang Hsin-chi, organiser of the Shanghai Silk and Cocoon Exchange.

Dr. Wang left here upon the personal invitation of President Hsu Shih-chang.

Chang May Get Planes After All

The new Chief of the Aeronautical Department, Pan Chu-yin, announced on Saturday that the military aspects of aviation would hereafter be emphasised instead of the commercial end. It is understood to indicate that Chang Tso-lin's demand will be granted for a number of airplanes for his alleged Mongolian Expedition.

Diplomatic pressure, however, is expected to be brought to bear on the department if this policy is carried out, as according to the stipulations of the agreement entered into between the Chinese Government and the Vickers interests, the machines handed over to Peking should be entirely used for commercial purposes.

Because of the alleged violation of the conditions of the airplane loan, Vickers has already refused to advance further instalments and the department has not yet been able to pay its staff its June salary, while the construction work of aerodromes in several places has been held up on account of the move, according to telegrams from Peking.

Pan however is depending upon his nephew, Pan Fu, Acting Minister of Foreign Affairs, for funds.

Several promotions in the police force were announced the last week-end. Inspector E. H. Lynch, of West Hongkew station, is promoted Chief Inspector from July 1 and Sergeants T. Robertson, I. C. Kiloh and F. C. Bridger are made Sub-Inspectors from the same date.

UNGERN MENACED BY MONGOLS AND BOLSHEVIK ARMY

Cruising Defeat Leaves Him Weak—Mukden's Warlord Moving

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 17.—According to unconfirmed reports from Harbin General Ungern is in Transbaikalia, near the border of Mongolia and is menaced by Red troops on the one side and Mongols on the other. His recent crushing defeat in the Transbaikal left his depleted forces in a very weak condition. Meanwhile what is described as a Red Mongol movement is said to have started in Outer Mongolia, centering in Urga. The leaders of this movement are opposed to Ungern, while the Hutukhtu is said to be neutral towards the new policy.

The Korchin tribe of Mongols has declared itself free from the dominion of Urga and henceforth under the protection of Sinkiang.

The Government has received a telegram from General Chang Tso-lin saying that the 28th Division of the Fengtien forces, under the command of General Hsi Chin-chun, has arrived at Chou-yang on its way to Jehol, and asking the Government to inform the authorities at Jehol, Chahar and Suaiyuan that this force is part of the expeditionary army, whose mission is to destroy the menace offered by General Ungern's forces in the north, and to request that every assistance be given to the 28th Division and any other forces of the expeditionary army.

URGA IS TAKEN

Peking, July 18.—An official telegram from Harbin says the forces of the Far Eastern Republic captured Urga on the 5th inst., defeating Baron Ungern, and inflicting heavy losses on his troops, who retreated into Manchuria.

News of the fall of Urga was wired to Shanghai by the Dalta News Agency's Manchuli correspondent and was printed in THE CHINA PRESS last Friday.

Many Riot Over Note Redemption

floated through the teashops on Sunday to the effect that Monday was to be the last day on which payments would be made.

It was stated by bank officials last night that approximately $450,000 of the $750,000 in notes outstanding have been retired and beginning today the Bankers' Association offices will be open only from 10 a.m. until noon.

PAYING IN PEKING

Peking, July 13.—The man or woman with a small Banque Industrielle de Chine note, fared ill today when he approached the Peking Bankers' Association headquarters to turn his little pile of savings into silver. On one of the hottest days of the year, from 7 o'clock the area in front of the headquarters was packed with a mass of men and women who had feared they had lost their all in the losing of the bank.

Only five persons were admitted at a time. As the notes were cashed, the silver was laid out quickly and the note holders told to move on. Many complained afterward that the full count of dollars was not given. Where mistakes were made however, there was no opportunity to correct them. The police compelled the customers to go out and they were not permitted to return.

CANTON NORMAL SCHOOL GIRLS' DIPLOMAS HELD

Students Against Abolition Of Medical School And Oppose Commissioner

Canton, July 14.—The Educational Commission of Kwangtung is at present the center of attack from many sides. The Commission, with Chen Tu-hsiao, an alleged Bolshevik agent and a former Peking University professor, as chairman, has has never been popular, especially because of the chairman's radical views.

The decision of the Commission to abolish the Government Medical School is being opposed by the retiring students, who consider that they should be permitted to continue their studies until the highest class has graduated. The decision was based on the ground that the school had never been efficient and that there were other institutions in Canton which could better provide medical courses. Moreover, the expenses of running a medical school are heavy, and the present government appropriation cannot meet the cost of maintenance of an efficient staff or laboratory, such as are necessary for the school.

Another source of trouble for the Commission is its relation to the Girls Normal School. The Commission is withholding the diplomas of the graduating class, asserting that the last examination was held without the knowledge of the school inspectors who had expressed a desire to be present and observe the working of the students. The school inspectors have been accused of interfering with private correspondence of the students, the young women declaring that it is none of the inspectors business with whom they correspond.

The Girls Normal School held its graduating exercises on July 9, but the future teachers did not get their diplomas, and the Commission says it will withhold them until the class takes another examination. In the past the examinations were conducted by the teachers who grade the work and decide the candidates for graduation.

Japan Persists In Putting Dairen On Gold Coin Basis

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 16.—The Japanese Government is adhering to its intention to introduce a gold standard into the Dairen Exchange, in spite of considerable opposition, principally on the part of wealthy Japanese companies who meet with but little loss by paying in silver, owing to silver receipts in China from other lines of business. The small Japanese buyers, however, are said to be almost unanimously in favor of the gold standard.

Chinese dealers naturally are wholly opposed to the change from silver to gold and a movement is now on foot to open another exchange outside the Leased Territory.

Red Crews Seize Vladivostok Tugs

(Dalta News Agency)

Peking, July 18.—The reported seizure of two steamers by their crews at Vladivostok is confirmed. The tug-boats Paul the Fifth and the Amur were seized by sailors loyal to the Far Eastern Republic.

The Right press comments upon the incident as showing the helplessness of the Vladivostok government, and deride its inability to deal with the workers who remain loyal to the Chita government.

LAWN BOWLS CHAMPIONSHIP SEMI-FINALS ARE LOOMING UP FOR APPROACHING WEEK-END

Saturday's Games Postponed Because Of Rain; MacGregor Beats Stormes 21-19 At Wayside Sunday Afternoon In Play-off Of Tie

BY THE SHOT

What would have no doubt been two very interesting matches last Saturday, were prevented from being played by the usual downpour. These games are so enjoyable that it is to be hoped that other dates will be arranged for them when it is convenient.

The form displayed by each of the four clubs seems to be very much on a par, as gauged by the results, all the games having been decided by a very narrow margin.

Competitors for the open championships are displaying any amount of keenness in getting off their ties, so that the events are well forward.

An interesting match was that between McDougall's rink and Shaw's team resulting in a win for the latter. As it was obvious that the match was going to be a good one, quite a number of enthusiasts lined the banks.

Starting off with a three at the first end, when Eek's ditched toucher had dragged the jack to within a yard of the ditch, Shaw's team were always playing a winning game. It seemed that however good a shot was played by the club brigade (and there were quite a number) their opponents were always able to nullify them by something better.

Of the players Banham and Harborne were the best of the club team, in fact they were equal to the best on the rink.

Marshall put up several good ones but he was not so deadly as I know he can be. Of Mac, I don't know what to say. He seemed to be putting good ones down every end and his skipping would have won many a game but he caught Shaw at his very best and so suffered in comparison.

The Recs as a team bowled splendidly while Jack Shaw as stated before bowled the game of his life. I noticed C. M. Bain and the rest of his team on the banks, and I've no doubt that when they meet Shaw's gang, they are not going under without a struggle.

In the singles Wootten did very well to defeat A. D. Bell by 21-6. It was a peculiar game, the rink not being one of the best Bell always seemed to have a difficulty in getting his woods to draw correctly, whilst Wootten, with a larger bias on his woods, was able to correctly gauge the land every end.

On three occasions when A. D. lay 3-3 and 4 Wootten managed to lie the shot with his last wood. Whilst not wishing to depreciate old Woot's victory I must say that A. D. Bell was right below his form on this occasion.

With Shaw's scalp also hanging on his belt the Rec's player is beginning to loom up large on the championship horizon. David has conceded his unfinished game to Jimmy Marshgreen, so the end of this week should see the close approach of the semi-finals.

A keen game was witnessed at the Wayside Park last evening when Macgregor and Stormes played off their tie in the singles championship, the former winning a real good game by 21-19.

The game ran to 29 ends and Stormes had the heels of his opponent right up to the 27th when the score read 19-15. Here, with Mac laying 3 shots, Stormes, in an endeavor to save went slightly narrow and promoted Mac's guard, bringing the scores 19-19.

A short end with two in favor of Mac finished the match. The victor won the championship two years ago and is playing good enough to repeat the dose. A word about the Wayside greens, whoever is in charge of them might at least fill up some of the holes with sand and give it a good dose with a heavy roller. It is simply weird to see the antics of a well laid down bowl now and again.

By the way, Guy Manwaring would be greatly assisted if competitors would let him have results of matches as soon as possible after playing.

SAYS "BUGS" Baer:

NAME WILL LIVE IN HYSTERIA

Roughtown Champ Will Never Be Forgotten By Those Who Can't Forget

BY "BUGS" BAER

Friend or Enemy:

It is dizzorium the way you uphold Gink Fowler in your silligot manner. You forget the imperious Ham Swift from Armour. Ham broke so many of Gink's ribs that they had to wire him up like a banjo. Armour is the toughest town in the world. They had to shoot the only doctor in order to start a graveyard.

Anybody's but yours,
PAUL YAWITZ,
St. Louis, Missouri.

Armour may be the toughest collection of wig-wams in the world, We never claimed that for Roughtown. What we did say, was that Roughtown was the toughest assortment of leaky roofs in the underworld. Ham came to Roughtown and trained in a smokehouse. He couldn't fight unless the building was full of smoke.

On the night of the big battle, Gink's friends crossed Ham by not borrowing any cigars that day. The air was pure and sweet. Ham fell off like a bruised thumbnail. He was cured. He came into Roughtown with a million to plaster on himself. All he left with was a lot of bad habits. When talking of Riffrax, Armour and other tough precincts, don't forget that Roughtown was the bridgehead that controlled the Tough River.

SPRING CROP OF BLACKJACKS

The town was situated in the Intemperate Zone. On Market Day all the farmers brought their Spring crops of blackjacks in. They had the most luxurious pebble farms and cabbie ranches in the country. When training, Gink had an expression that would make a clock wind itself in fear. When he frowned, cradles would tremble on their rockers. When he smiled, canaries would turn yellow. Right outside of Roughtown was a nest of sharp lions. Gink used to go out there barehanded and play leapfrog with hungry lions. He used to take their meat away and give it to poor lions.

Fighting wasn't considered much of a profession in Roughtow where the wealthy amateurs slugged just for fun. But when Gink bagged two opponents in one punch, dragged the Rocky Mountains in by the heels and hung his hat on the Aurora Borealis, even his worst friends figured that there must be something to the unmanly art of selfish defense.

BATTLED WITH ENGINEER

Gink's best battle was with an engineer on the Roughtown Railroad. The engineer and Gink were both in love with the same saloon. Gink ran alongside the engine for two hundred miles, jabbing at the engineer, while the fireman threw lumps of coal at Gink to cool him off. The passengers were neutral in this fight, which might have gone the limit if Gink hadn't sprained an ankle kicking the locomotive off the track.

He was a jolly little beggar and loved to skylark. The Board of Directors gave him a life ticket on the road and dared him to use it. He trod where angels feared to rush. The next day he was right back on the Roughtown local looking at his share of the landscape as if nothing had happened. The directors went into executive session and wore all the spots off a pinochle deck trying to figure what was wrong with economic conditions. That same day a stranger pulled out a toothpick at the Mayor's banquet. History was being made.

Cy Wilhoit's Infield Makes All Hits And Runs For Blue Sox; Merrill Effective, Chinese Makes Great Catch In Deep Right

Cy Wilhoit's first line infield saved his Blue Sox baseball team from a bad defeat in the game with the stockings of red on Sunday afternoon. All of their hits and runs were made by the men stationed within the diamond.

The Reds batted their way to an early lead and in spite of rallies by Wilhoit's men, maintained the front to the final score of 7-6.

Merrill in the box for the Crimson team held the balance of power. He was as effective against his Blue Socked opponents as he has been against other teams that have opposed him this season. He started in a trifle wild but in the second he had his range on his cross-fire ball, and from then on had a win assured. In the second frame he fanned the side. He totalled a dozen strikeouts for the nine innings he worked.

Each team played a coolie, due to the fact that several of the players had taken a holiday hike out into the country and failed to report for play. Each team played the boy in right field. Honors between the two Chinese were evenly divided. The Blue boy leaped into the air in the fifth and dragged down Merrill's big drive, and got a big hand from the stands for the play. The Red boy dropped the only chance he had in the field but in the seventh, when he got on after a wild throw to first of his little hit to Arit, he galloped bare-foot around the circuit, scoring the one run margin which decided the game for his team.

LOCAL mermen have not shown any particular activity during the past week, though it is gratifying to note that the Police swimmers have been able to assemble enough enthusiasts to make up two full water polo teams, despite the illness of some, their former captain.

The International Club is still silent, and the Rowing Club was unable to raise teams at the Wednesday night meeting; even on Friday afternoon the teams mustered for the scratch game with Mr. Wallin in charge of the whistle were only six a side.

So far this season has been one of the poorest water polo seasons known here, and more's the pity if the proposed interport contest against Hongkong materialises, for the Crown Colony is said to be even more than usually strong at water polo this year. And it will be remembered that even in Shanghai water the Hongkong men gave our local exponents a handful last time they came up here (in 1913), so that in their own (salt) water their chances are all the better especially as they then have the choice of their very best players.

In the meantime, while awaiting further details from Hongkong of the events proposed for the interport program, the local swimming association delegates have held a meeting, whereat it was decided that trials be swum off to decide on the Model Settlement's representatives in the various distances, and in diving, plunging, etc.

GOOD MEN AVAILABLE

It will then remain to be seen which of the best local talent can make the journey, and it is expected that Shanghai will be able to dispatch a worthily representative contingent down South.

Fetherstonhaugh should be a winner in the 100 and even in longer distances if he could train up to them. Siemssen is said to be in fine fettle, while Wallin and Brown are reliable for the longer distances. Mears, too, is said to be in trim for even the longer distances and will probably contest the local 440 yards championship with distinction.

Berthet has not been doing much training this year but the memory of his victories on the occasion of the last visit which Shanghai paid to Hongkong should stimulate him into getting down to work again. For the relay race, Shanghai should have a strong team, if men like Brodie and Goldman travel down.

Owing to the lateness in starting of the local water polo league, it is hard to foretell who would comprise Shanghai's VII, but taking even the players as have so far come forward a really first-class Rowing Club team alone, if it traveled at full strength, ought to give Hongkong a rare battle. Wallin, for one, will take quite a bit of marking.

In any case it is to be hoped that a Shanghai team will accept the challenge for then we should have the privilege of getting Hongkong up here next season.

BEATTY WINNER OF SHOOT FOR "OLD BILL" CUP

Breaks 36 Over Clay Pigeon Club Traps; Pirie Takes Sweep

The Shanghai Clay Pigeon Club was able to resume shooting on Sunday having received a shipment of birds from Japan. Pending arrival of a further supply from the United States the Club was fortunate in being able to obtain the birds made in Japan, but they are distinctly of poor quality as compared with the home product.

The tar preparation in them has caused many of the birds to "feel the heat," and becoming mis-shaped there were frequent breaks when thrown from the trap. Nevertheless a good afternoon's sport was enjoyed.

The competition was for the "Old Bill" Cup, the condition being 40 birds from "Leggett" trap, and was easily won by Mr. W. Beatty with the excellent score of 36 breaks plus a handicap of 8 making 44.

The undernoted are the scores:

A sweep followed which was won by Mr. W. G. Pirie, who, shooting with a new gun, broke 16 out of 20.

TEETHING TIME NEED NOT MEAN TEARS

When baby's teeth are coming through is a time of worry to many mothers. The little one's gums become swollen and tender; he is cross; does not sleep well; is troubled with constipation, colic or diarrhoea, and sometimes even convulsions seize him.

During this period nothing can equal the use of Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy. They regulate the bowels and stomach, and make the teething so easy that the mother scarcely realise baby is getting his teeth.

These Tablets are equally healthful and harmless to the youngest infant and the child of eight or more, curing constipation, indigestion, colic, diarrhoea, simple fever and expelling worms.

Baby's Own Tablets are to be had from chemists, also post free at 50 cents the vial from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

Raymond Duncan Puts His Life Into Periscopic Poem

Portrayal Given In Latin Quarter Theater Shows He Rises And Goes To Bed Unwashed And Pays Rent With Aid Of U.S. Tourists

Paris, June 11.—The life of Raymond Duncan is a veritable poem, according to his own interpretation, for the fantastic Greek from Los Angeles, Cal., has composed what he terms periscopic verse describing an ordinary day in his life.

Before a selected group of disciples and friends Duncan himself directed the first presentation of his poem at the Esthetic Theater in the Latin Quarter. Here is his general outline of how to conduct a life of perfect art:

At sunrise he wakes from a hard bench covered with two blankets. He dons a homespun tunic, held in place by a belt. Then by clapping his hands he calls a group of women servants, each bearing a babe in her arms.

"It is the hour of ablutions," sings Duncan. But he himself forgets to take a morning bath. Then comes the daily scene with the concierge because the rent is unpaid. Two American tourists save the situation by paying cash for one of Raymond's rugs, for in his haste to make the world understand how to live, Isadora's brother apparently has forgotten to line his own purse sufficiently.

As proof of his fraternity he then adopts all the illegitimate babies whose working mothers consider them destined for the esthetic life and greets the new disciples with a resounding kiss. Then comes a dinner, which is meatless but plentiful, after which Duncan, sitting on the floor, gathers the chosen ones around him for a final lecture before he, still unwashed, is tucked between rough sheets prepared by a female seeker after truth.

Novel By Evelyn Scott Is Grim In Its Realistic Effects

The Narrow House. By Evelyn Scott. Published by Boni and Liveright.

The Narrow House is the story of an abnormal family whose secret thoughts and motives are laid bare by the relentless scalpel of the author. There is no escaping her. Bit by bit she cuts away their surface pretensions.

Essentially it is a revelation of the Family thing at its worst, as a "monster which fed on pain." The house is a tomb in which the members of the family are buried alive, doomed to die a hundred deaths, bound eternally to each other. With the vivid realism of the Imagistes, Mrs. Scott pictures her characters and their surroundings, detail upon sordid detail, until the reader sickens, yet cannot shake off the feeling that there are really people like that—not one's self or one's friends, oh, no!—but other people, men and women, yes—and children, too.

Even a rigidly unsentimental person will feel the shock, but discounting the abnormality of the picture, he will recognise its artistry. At times there is a tendency to multiply adjectives in describing the obvious until the effort becomes tiresome. But it is precisely by this method that Mrs. Scott achieves her effects:

"There was almost a frenzy about Mrs. Farley's attention to work. She got up at 5:30 in the morning, and in the still gray dawn, when the grass in the back yard was silver with rime, she took out the ashes in a big bucket and emptied them into the bin in the alley. The gray dust settled on her uncovered hair, but she did not seem to know it. Stiff locks, sticky with dirt, hung about her grimed face. Her flannel waist was half out of the band of her draggled skirt. Her hands, crimson at the knuckles and grained with the filth of labor, clutched the ashcan stiffly."

It is the mother, posing as a martyr, who forms the catch in the chain which binds the family together. Her duties are all the satisfaction she has in life and she means to cling to them, in which she is better off than the rest of the family. Her son, married at an early age, sees his prospects for distinction in his profession recede forever while he, hating the pretty fool who is his wife, is bound to her by physical attractions. In spite of the hold she has on her husband, Winnie is not satisfied. She disgusts her husband and her children in her ceaseless demands for affection. Then there is the father, weakly in love with another woman, but making a virtue of the necessity that binds him to his wife.

Most important of all, there is Alice, the daughter, pitifully conscious of her ugly body and the hopelessness of her love for her employer.

In vain Alice struggles against herself. There is no help for her but for the others she sees hope. When her father's mistress comes to town Alice ruthlessly tears the veil of silence on the subject and demands that he get a divorce and take the happiness that he should have. But he had "nurtured his self-esteem on the verity of abnegation and it was hard for him to accept as a blessing the thing which it had given him so much comfort to do without," so he lets the woman depart, "in terror of seeing her too clearly."

The sister meets the same resistance of life when, after Winnie's death, she urges her brother to go away. Her efforts are futile. They are dead already and the tomb has engulfed them.

Foreigner Charges Tramway Employes With Assaulting Him

Charge, However, Is Dismissed In Mixed Court

Mr. S. H. Lewis, of the Municipal secretariat, laid a complaint of assault against a motorman and a conductor of the tramways company Sunday noon.

Mr. Lewis reported to the police that he was riding along Nanking Road in a ricsha when the coolie stopped to roll up his trousers, causing an obstruction in the path of an oncoming tram car. The motor man got down from the car, he stated, and assaulted the coolie and when Mr. Lewis interfered he was struck on the face and chest by the motorman and the conductor.

The two men were handed over to the police Sunday afternoon and released on $50 bail. They appeared in the Mixed Court yesterday and were dismissed on the charge of assaulting the foreigner—the evidence being conflicting—but the motorman was fined $7 for attacking the ricsha coolie.

Industry Lost Genius When Fournier Died

Travelling At Night To Save Time Cost Gun Manufacturer His Life

Paris, June 11.—In the death of Achille Fournier, director-general of the Schneider Creusot Works, when his automobile crashed into an express train at a grade crossing, France lost a genius who, though but 28 years old, had shown a command of organisation and industry. He was so engrossed in his duties that he invariably traveled in his automobile at night so as not to lose time. It was during such a journey in the middle of the night that the chauffeur failed to see the approaching express train.

When the war started M. Fournier was only a branch superintendent of the big steel works, but his devotion attracted the attention of M. Schneider and won him promotion to the highest industrial position, namely, that of director of relations with the United States manufacturers and at the same time controlling 125,000 workmen. As a financial organiser his success was remarkable. He personally arranged the co-ordination of the Schneider Creusot Works with the Austrian Skoda and the Luxemburg subsidiaries and obtained for M. Schneider an interest in 182 corporations.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have paregoric or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a few drops too many will produce the sleep from which there is no waking. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which is poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," & "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children unless you or your physician know of what it is composed. Castoria does not contain narcotics.

WM. J. MCCRANN, M. D.,

"I object to what are called patent medicines, where the maker alone knows what stuff is put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use in proper cases. I judge it to be a very useful, as well as harmless family medicine."

TICKET SCALPING IN BRITAIN WINS

Seats Of Wimbledon Park And Hurlingham Bring Fancy Prices

London, June 11.—With the growing interest in international sports ticket scalping has become a profitable business, and prices which would put to shame Tex Rickard's fondest dreams regarding his arena are being asked—and what is more to the point are being paid—for seats in Wimbledon Park for the tennis matches there and at Hurlingham for the international polo games.

Wimbledon Park seats were sold at auction months ago, and now the lucky possessors of these tickets are putting them on the market for a season or a daily rate. Seats which cost the holders £3 are now being hawked for £20, and in the front stand £30 and even more. It was stated in London club circles that two season seats this week brought as high as £60, which was well over $300.

Meanwhile on the sporting pages of newspapers announcing the popularity of these games writers are lampooning the idea of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight in the United States, with its "fabulous purses and fabulous prices."

Prices for tickets for the international polo matches at Hurlingham range from £2 to £10 for a single game and as high as £25 for the tournament, which means the best two out of three games Speculators have gobbled up many of the best seats and are advertising them extensively in the daily newspapers of London.

Chinese Recorder

The Chinese Recorder, July 1921. Published monthly by the American Presbyterian Mission Press.

The leading article this month is from the pen of the Rev. A. R. Kepler, who has recently been called from a successful work in Hunan to be head of Nantao Christian Institute at Shanghai. He writes on "New Methods in Evangelism;" and his experience with these methods is sure to command respectful attention. As for the methods themselves, they are too numerous and detailed for an attempt at even a summary in this review, but every one of them is based on experience, for they have all been tried and proved before they are recommended. Those missionaries who comforted themselves in former times for the meagre results of their work by the thought that they were sowing the seed, and that the Lord of the Harvest would some day gladden their eyes, may be startled into wondering, after reading this paper, whether they had not failed to use the means which their own minds might have provided after a study of the situation, and whether they have not sometimes sheltered themselves from a severe study by St. Paul's word about the foolishness of preaching.

Those who have any acquaintance with the inner history of Protestant missions in China are aware of the manner in which history is repeating itself. An old-fashioned theological battle has been on for about a year, on the questions of revelation, Biblical inspiration, and the supernatural. The glove was thrown down last summer during the meetings of Dr. Griffith Thomas on Kuling, by a body of conservatives who formed an association which they named "The Bible Union of China." The fathers of a generation ago would have been horrified to have such questions up for discussion at all, for they regarded the credal statements on these matters as correct expressions of a "Faith once for all delivered to the saints." But they had to have a controversy none the less, and they had it over the Term Question, the Shen party asserting that Shang-ti is the name of a heathen divinity, while the Shang-ti party said that that term was a personal name for God, whereas Shen means merely "spirit."

Other times, other controversies; and in the current number of the Recorder, Mr. D. E. Hoste (quoted from the Bulletin of the Bible Union of China) tells, "Why I have Joined the Bible Union of China," and is answered by a symposium of nine writers who are not members of the Union and who make specific reply to Mr. Hoste's contention that the modern view of the Bible reads these supernatural element out of Christianity. The various statements will repay careful reading by any one who is interested in the controversy.

Special point is given to the whole by an able article from the pen of the Rev. G. G. Warren, entitled "Two Examples of Critical Analysis of Old Testament Passages." These analyses are specimens of "higher criticism," and Mr. Warren has been moved to offer them, because of the oft-repeated charge that a man cannot be a higher critic and yet be orthodox on Christian fundamentals. Mr. Warren says, "I declare unreservedly that I accept Jesus as the only Son of God. I believe that He was made man by the power of the Holy Ghost through Whom He was conceived of the Virgin Mary, that He lived a sinless life and died an atoning death. . . . At the same time I am of the opinion that the first five books of the Old Testament are a compilation made from four earlier books. . . . "

A brief review of "The Originality of the Christian Message" by Professor Mackintosh of Edinburgh, written by Dr. Griffith Thomas is very welcome, but any one who knows both men will be inclined to ask whether Saul is also among the prophets. Professor Mackintosh is a representative of that Scotch scholarship and theology which while maintaining the fundamentals is distinctively not conservative in the sense understood by the Bible Union, and which will lead the Union a merry dance, if they try to follow it. One of the avowed objects of the Bible Union is opposition to Hastings' "Bible Dictionary," especially in its Chinese form, a work that came straight out of Scotland, chiefly from Edinburgh.

At this point we are tempted to tell the story of the colored preacher who announced as his text, "Without controversy, great is the mystery of godliness." "That's just it, brethren," he said, "without controversy, great is the mystery. If you have a little controversy, you clear up the mystery." Let us hope that the present controversy will result in wider and clearer understandings of all the questions involved.

CARD OF THANKS

On the 5th day of the 3rd moon, our junk, "King Yuen Woo", sailing from Dairen to Fukien with a cargo of oil and beans, was attacked by pirates in the Danchow Sea, at Lua Yue Shan (大鉢洋面劫盜山). Fortunately the Cruiser Liu Sin (流芯), controlled by the Coast Inspector of Customs, witnessed the incident. The foreign Chief and Second-in-Command, and other staff, immediately attacked the pirates, who, after some time, fled, and our junk was towed out of danger by the Cruiser.

The Foochow Merchant Vessel Head Association is requesting the Fukien Commissioner of Customs to suitably reward the aforesaid officers.

We are advertising both in the Chinese and foreign newspapers to express our thanks and our gratitude for the timely assistance rendered.

King Yuen Woo Junk, of Chwang Yuen Tai, Fukien.

Important Notice

We have perused an article in the Peking and Tientsin newspapers about the sale of the undermentioned Company to the foreigners by Mr. Chang Kien Hoa (張鑑華), which has much surprised us. As this Company is part of the public estate of the "Chang Tzu" (張氏), no person or persons (Chang Tzu) can sell it individually and privately even the public (foreign and Chinese) cannot purchase without legal action. The business of this Company has been growing steadily, its trustworthiness and good financial standings are well known to the public, therefore, no necessity exists to sell to others or to issue any share script. If any mortgage is made through Mr. Chang with others it is to be considered as his personal affair, and this Company will not be responsible for same.

KINGMAN & BROS.

How to Preserve the Teeth

In order to keep the teeth in a good condition scientific precaution must be taken. Through negligence, decay and numerous other affections such as tooth-ache, dental periostitis esteo-periostitis, necrosis of the jaw, etc., may arise. During the process of ingestion, there are settled on the teeth, some deposits of mineral and organic matters, called tartar, which possesses a morbid power of pressing the gum. As an inevitable result of the presence of this tartar, the teeth will become elongated and movable and will, by degrees, absorb away the enamel, leading ultimately to the decay and degeneration of the teeth. The tartar is so hard and resistant to the process of brushing that it cannot be scraped off except with dental instruments specially devised for that purpose.

Dr. KINGMAN offers to the public his service for preserving their teeth at an annual subscription Fee of $10.00 per head to be paid in advance.

The work to be done by Dr. KINGMAN to the subscribers consists in:—

(1) Cleaning of the teeth quarterly
(2) Filing with gold platinum alloy only, when the teeth present holes.
(3) Inspecting the teeth at any time at the desire of the subscribers.

What The Pacific Conference Means To Japan

WITH the United States the biggest buyer of Japanese goods, and the only country in the world today able to buy the luxuries which form a major portion of Japan's exports, it is curious to observe the Tokio statesmen's hesitation to accept the invitation to the Pacific conference in Washington, Armistice Day, this year.

Japan chooses to see the bill of fare before promising to attend a banquet of reason, at which she would receive more nourishment than any other diner. Whether or not the dubious attitude of the United States on the decisions of the Supreme Council is responsible for existing international complications, as Japanese editors declare, greater markets for Japan, and a recovery from the present slump in her trade would follow an amicable settlement of the questions expected to be discussed at the Pacific conference.

An examination of Japan's Financial and Economic Annual for 1920 reveals some eloquent comparisons in Japanese foreign trade. In 1919 Japan exported to Great Britain goods valued at 111 million yen, and to the United States 828 million, or seven and one half times more.

Imports that year from Great Britain were 127 million yen, from the United States 766 millions, showing that America's imports from Japan exceeded the exports by 62 million yen.

Statistics of last year record exports to Great Britain at 97 million yen, to the United States 565 millions. The imports were 232 millions from Great Britain, and 873 millions from the United States. Japan's trade with America is thus seen to be four to five times greater than that with England.

The returns from Japan's trade for the first six months of 1921 reveal an adverse trade balance of 223 million yen, imports over exports. The foreign trade is only one half what it was for the corresponding period last year. The bottom thumping slump is ascribed to declining prices. Some commodities are shipped in even greater quantities than before, but the money realised is less.

To raise the purchasing value of the yen abroad Japan will have to bring the value of her exports up to, and over, that of her imports. Her natural market is the United States. Figures of the last few years show that America takes five sixths of Japan's exported tea, two thirds of her camphor, and nearly all her raw silk. The 1920 annual quotes the export of raw silk to the United States for the previous year as valued at 600 million yen, of a total of 623 millions.

Imports, as well, argue for a favorable understanding with the United States. True, Japan can get cotton from India, and does to an extent equal to her imports from America. But her purchases of rails, steel and iron products and locomotives are almost exclusively made in the United States.

The obvious outcome of a peaceful settlement of Pacific questions is that Japan will be the biggest gainer. No matter what the decisions of the conference may be, concerning Korea, Shantung, Yap, and other matters ticklish to Japanese delicacy, a frank understanding must be attained by Japan.

If the matters are settled by means less friendly than a round table conference Japan will be the greatest loser. Most of her trade with the United States is carried in Japanese ships, giving her merchant marine a great advantage. And while trade with Japan is one of the smaller activities of America's foreign commerce, Japan's trade with America is a matter of vital import to the merchants and people of Japan.

It is for Japan to make her winter of discontent a glorious summer by joining the Pacific conference with her weather cards on the table.

TEMPUS FUGIT

Two young ladies on the promenade of a seaside resort had been looking through a telescope lent them by an old salt. On handing the glass back, one of the ladies remarked that it was a very good one.

"Yes, miss," said the ancient mariner, "that 'ere telescope was given me by Lord Nelson."

"Good gracious, why Lord Nelson has been dead over a hundred years."

"Well, I'm blowed!" replied the salty one, quite unabashed, "'ow the time do fly."

A letter to the S. M. C.

A letter from the Civic League to the S. M. C.

Gertie replies:

PUZZLE THIS OUT

Charles L. Dodson, late Professor of higher mathematics at Christ Church, Oxford, who was known to most people as Lewis Carroll, author of "Alice in Wonderland" was responsible for the following peculiar calculation:

Write down the number of your brothers that are living. Multiply this by two. Add three. Multiply the result by five. To this add the number of your sisters that are living. Multiply the result by ten. Add to this the number of your dead brothers and sisters. From the total subtract 150.

The right hand figure gives the number of deaths, the middle figure gives the number of living sisters, and the left hand figure gives the number of living brothers.

A BRIDEGROOM KIDNAPPED

Of quaint marriage customs, perhaps the strangest is that observed by some of the women of Assam, India.

There the bride sometimes takes the initiative. She goes forth to fetch the bridegroom, and it is etiquette for him to hide and resist until carried off.

Occasionally a man may get his wife by capture, but usually it is the woman who kidnaps him, that is to say, her male friends do it for her.

Women of means are allowed to choose a temporary husband, and, when tired of him, pay him off and take another.

MUNICIPAL SALARIES

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir: Will you permit me to introduce a little common sense into the discussion now going on with regard to the vexed question of increased salaries to the lower grades of municipal servants?

The ratepayers, in a fit of exacerbation, instructed the Municipal Council in April last not to increase the salary of anybody by one cent. The Councillors knew of course quite well that the decision of the ratepayers had its origin in other reasons than an objection to an increase for the lower ranks. Hence the Council has taken the unusual unconstitutional step of acting in direct opposition to the mandate given them by the electors. The Council know of course quite well that they are acting unconstitutionally, and they tell the ratepayers that they (the ratepayers) have the power to prevent the materialisation of this illegal procedure.

Would it be unreasonable to suppose that the Council's present attitude is based on the following reflections:

The ratepayers, who are not celebrated for particular energy, will, in the first instance, have to obtain the signature of fifty of their number in order to compel us to convoke a Ratepayers' Meeting. They may possibly succeed in obtaining the requisite number of signatures. After that they will have to get several other fifties to come to the meeting in order to ensure a quorum. We doubt that they will succeed, for we have some knowledge of the average Shanghai ratepayer. But granted that we do meet in a properly constituted assembly. What then? If the ratepayers forbid us to make the increases in pay, as now announced, it is almost certain that all the low-salaried employes of the Council will go on strike and the whole of the municipal machinery will cease to function. The strikers may possibly employ their leisure by marching through our principal streets, with banners flowing and bands playing and themselves singing lustily:

Blessed be our City Fathers for their sense,
They know that all we need
Amounts to but some paltry cents,
—A bagatelle indeed!
A curse upon the common lot
Of those who will not pay,
And may they live to die and rot,
For none of us will stay!

The ratepayers will soon know what it means when the entire municipal machinery stops, and they will go down on their knees and beg the Council for mercy.

The Councillors are all men of sense, otherwise they would not be where they are. And they have got the somnolent ratepayers in a beautiful "fix" and are calmly awaiting developments.

That is at least my opinion, but, of course, I may be wrong. I rarely am through. I am, etc,

Gordius Nielsen.

Shanghai, July 18, 1921.

Stands By M. Vandelet

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir: I have read with much interest your report concerning the principals involved in the disturbance and assault which took place in the editor's office of L'Echoe De Chine and which is a sequel to the recent suspension of The Banque Industrielle De Chine.

It seems that the bank's representative was simply looking for trouble when he called on the editor and he got what he was looking for. Let us hope that he will behave himself in the future. This ought to be a lesson for him at any rate.

If the bank had any real grievance against the editor for having printed certain articles the remedy was to invoke the aid of its legal authorities and not to take the law into its own hands. Editors they should also bear in mind are here as elsewhere for the purpose of reporting facts as they learn and understand them and the public should stand by and protect them in this respect. The public and interested parties are entitled to know the facts whether it hurts certain persons or not and in this connection the freedom of the press must be safeguarded in every way for we are not in Russia today. This is a civilised country.

I do not, of course, know whether the bank's representative was sent around to coerce or intimidate the editor and I hope that this is not the case and that the man simply acted on his own responsibility. I think it is up to the bank officials to clear the public mind on this issue.

Let us hope that the editor in question will keep up his good work. The public demands the truth regardless whether it hurts one or another and he should be congratulated under the circumstances for adopting his present fearless attitude. Faithfully yours,

TAIPAN.

Poker In London

(New York Times)

Poker is said to be the development of the old English game of primero, but it is one of the glories of America. Fifty years ago General Robert C. Schenck, America Minister at the Court of St. James's, illustrated American literature and put the germs of enlightenment in British minds by his treaties on the sublime art. Americans have a friendly interest, therefore, in the present curious argument and conduct of the London police. An Englishman's house is his castle and an Englishman's club is his home. Some London clubs have a poker room.

The Chief Commissioner of Police has been informed that poker is a gambling game, legally prohibited in a public place. By some ingenious process of reasoning, official heads have persuaded themselves that a clubroom which only members of the club may enter is a public place. So the police have raided divers clubrooms, and divers house committees are apoplectic thereat. Such incursions are familiar to New York, which can now congratulate London upon its Americanisation. It has been supposed that our British friends couldn't play any game of cards, including old-fashioned whist, without at least some little stakes to foster the rigor of the game.

Some of the house committees are ready to defend the attacked game. They say that poker is a game of skill and not of mere chance. So it is, no matter what grave cullers of cyclopedias may think about it. What instant ratiocination, what clairvoyant penetration of other minds, what subtlest finesse, tactics and grand strategy, are displayed by perfect pokerites! As for "luck," losers know better than even anybody else to what kind of persons that belongs traditionally. If there is really any doubt in London that poker is a game of skill, the Home Secretary should get up a little game with the American Ambassador.

Self-Defense

The car was crowded. The stout woman was vainly trying to get her fare out of the pocket of her cloak which was tightly buttoned as a precaution against pickpockets. After she had worked for some minutes a timid-looking gentleman at her right said, "Please allow me to pay your fare, madam."

"Why?" demanded she with acerbity.

"Because, madam," replied the little man firmly, "you have undone my suspender buttons three times and I can stand it no longer."

Lamont Believes Menace Past

Albany, June 13.—Thomas W. Lamont in his address here tonight at the annual dinner of the Union College Alumni declared that conditions abroad are brighter today than they have been at any time in the last two years.

"I say this despite Upper Silesia, desp'te the Ruhr, despite Ireland," he said. "The situation centering round these three critical spots in the world politic has been, and still is, grave. But I believe the greatest menace is over. We shall still see black days; we may well have further crisis. But sane forces are at work. Despite frequent setbacks, the old world is moving to a solution of its troubles.

"I must, however, record one great exception. As to Russia we know almost nothing. If the Soviet regime is tottering to its fall, as many believe, there may succeed it for the moment, not a better government, but no government at all. For a time we may see anarchy there. But upon the other countries the sun is beginning once more to shine.

"Take England with the coal strike and Ireland on her hands. Both these complex problems, the one industrial, the other political, the British are slowly solving. In the handling of the coal strike the Government has been masterly. Between the miners and the operators there have been the same age-old questions as to working hours and wages that we have in our own coal regions. The miners have had good cause for complaint. They faced the hardship of a reduction in wages heavier than the lowered cost of living. But their one great and irretrievable point of weakness was their reduced output.

"Figures furnished to me gave this output per man in 1913 as 260 tons on an eight-hour shift; in 1920 190 tons on a seven-hour shift. Slackness is an argument that does not appeal to the average Englishman. Hence the miners, in their strike appeal to public opinion, have lost support. Hence again the Triple Alliance of railway and other workers saw the handwriting on the wall, and at the last moment backed away from a general strike. The settlement may at this moment have been reached; in any event it cannot be long delayed. No people in the world can be more patient than the British. None will put with inconvenience and hardship more cheerfully than they. But their lane, no matter how long, always has its turning.

"As to Ireland, here again the best composite of opinion that I could gather was that within six months, perhaps less time, a general settlement will have been effected, and that along the line of Dominion Government for Ireland. Despite continued murders and arson, reconcilement is in the air. The people of Ireland are themselves weary of the group that has been working on the settled principle that brutal oppression and murder are the only weapons where with to attain liberty in Ireland. It was not Mr. Lloyd George's fault that De Valera failed to come to London for a conference; it was De Valera's fears that his own Irish extremists would do him to death if he showed the spirit of conciliation so far as to come to Downing Street. That tells the story.

"Before my brief visit to Belgium, where I talked with the King, with members of the Cabinet and with leading men of affairs, I had become convinced of the extent and srtength of Belgium's industrial recovery. Her Government finance is likewise a solid basis. 'We must,' the Government said to me, 'secure our share of German reparations. We must recover the terrible losses to which we were put. But, as for our Government budget, we must tax ourselves so that, regardless of reparations, our balance sheet will come out whole.'

EUROPE STILL LOOKS TO US

"Although time did not permit my visiting Italy, the governmental figures as presented to me by the Italian authorities are encouraging. They show a reduction of the annual deficit from 14,000,000,000 lire in 1919-20 to 4,000,000,000 in 1921-22. The Italians have confidence that this schedule will be fulfilled, and they are taking measures to increase taxation still further. It wild be idle to deny that Italy's industrial situation has presented extraordinary difficulties, but the very extreme to which they have gone has had this advantage; proof has been given by the workmen to the workmen themselves that they cannot manage industry. The result is that labor is settling down and Italy's tradition of intense and uninterrupted industry is once more asserting itself.

"And now, finally, what of France? Her national finance presents for the moment, to be sure, a puzzling picture. But those who have doubts as to its future reck not of the people of France; of their industry and of their thrift, which is a religion. Every year since the war the Government has incurred heavy deficit. For the ensuing year the officials figure that their ordinary budget will balance itself, but that for extraodinary expenditures, restoration of the devastated regions, etc., the outgo over income will be 12,000,000,000 francs. This they expect to meet from German reparation receipts and any remaining balance through an internal loan. Whether these particular estimates are fulfilled or not, remember that the Government of France is in the last analysis the people of France, and as to their extraordinary recovery in agriculture, in industry and trade, the figures recently presented in the new French loan offering here speak for themselves. The strength and prosperity of the French people are for the long future beyond question.

"No step that has been taken in the last two years has put such fresh heart in France, and in fact all Europe, as President Harding's decision to take immediate part, through his Ambassadors, in the counsels abroad. Matters are afoot which affect the whole course of American industry and trade. By no course of self-interest can the people of the United States afford to be without voice in these settlements, most of them not local to Europe, but reaching to the uttermost corners of the earth.

"But for an even weightier reason, may I say, the peoples of Great Britain, of France, of all Europe, by whose side our soldiers have fought, are rejoicing in America's return to their counsels. The reason is that the action of President Harding and of Secretary Hughes represents in the minds of these people a renewed hope, a fresh reliance upon co-operative and helpful America."
